

MAJOR SMITH WANTED TO GREET PRINCE

British War Veterans Haven't Asked Him to Reception at Station Tomorrow

MAY GO IF HE DESIRES

If Major Smith wants to add the Prince of Wales to the list of celebrities he has greeted he must go to the North Philadelphia Station tomorrow morning without an invitation from the British war veterans here.

This is the attitude today of the British Great War Veterans of America, made clear by Sergeant Harold Howard, vice president of the organization.

Recalling the sharp issue raised by members of the American Legion with Major Smith when Cardinal Mercier visited here, Sergeant Howard said the Major was asked to try to arrange for a brief stopover by the British heir to the throne.

"Mr. Smith told us positively that it could not be arranged," the sergeant declared. "But we were not satisfied with that and wrote directly to a member of the prince's suite."

"I sent a letter to Major Smith, enclosing a copy of the letter we wrote to the member of the prince's party. We have not heard anything further from the Major."

"If Mr. Smith and Governor Sprout want to greet his royal highness they won't have any trouble getting past the police lines at the station."

"But if the Major and the Governor do come out it will mean formal presentations must be made and that will delay the prince."

500 Veterans to be at Station

"We will have about 500 veterans lined up on the North Philadelphia station platform at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. They will be either two or four deep. The plan is simply to have the prince descend from his private car, walk along the platform and be greeted by the veterans."

This will be the prince's only function in Philadelphia during his tour of the United States. He passed through this city last week, but was asleep at the time and did not meet persons who had gathered at West Philadelphia Station for a sight of the royal prince.

The only civilian at the reception will be Thomas G. Porter, British consul here. He will be assisted by Sir Frank Schwab, of the Royal Artillery.

Sir John H. Potter, a Philadelphia resident who was an aide staff of Major General John H. Siddle, commander of the American forces in England, is given credit for securing the prince's acceptance to review the veterans. Captain Potter is one of the American dignitaries to accompany the prince on his tour.

PRINCE PLAYS GOLF WITH PROFESSIONAL

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger

White Sulphur Springs, Va., Nov. 17.—The Prince of Wales started playing golf early this morning to play the long golf course with a professional, George S. Sayers, who will have luncheon at the Casino with members of his suite and will play golf this afternoon with Sir Godfrey Thomas, who defeated him yesterday.

The prince is being coached by the professional and hopes to win this afternoon.

Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, of New York and Washington, is giving a tea-dance at the Casino in honor of the prince from 6 to 8 o'clock and has brought down Meyer Davis's famous jazz orchestra from Washington.

The prince's special train will leave here for New York at 8:30 and arrive in New York at 11 o'clock.

MORE CHARGES FOR GILMAN

Ex-Constable Faces New Arrest at Hearing Today

When ex-Constable Jake Gilman is arraigned this afternoon on charges that Pennock in Central Station Saturday night, additional charges of assault and battery on a policeman while resisting arrest will be lodged against him, it is said.

Gilman is alleged to have failed to heed the signal of a red light at the intersection of Arch and Chestnut streets. In the car with him were his wife and two children and his nephew, Raymond Schwab, 14, who was arrested and arraigned this afternoon for assaulting Patton after the incident.
